Etiquette : giving the best of yourself

Beyond the classic stereotype, etiquette is the way to behave properly according to the different situations, and has been evolving through the ages.

We find etiquette treaties since the earliest Antiquity, in many parts of the world : Asia, Middle-East, Europe, pre-columbian America...Even if the advices they give are of course not the same, the purpose does not change : how to give the best of yourself under the different circumstances that can happen ?

This is why there is no absolute good or bad manners, but only appropriate or inappropriate behavior. It depends on the context. As a consequence, Etiquette has been through major changes during the ages. Practical workshops are planned !

Our speaker, Rtn. Guillaume Rué de Bernadac is the President of the Académie de Bernadac. The expertise of Mr Rué de Bernadac comes from his family experience. At a very young age, he was schooled in the codes of protocol by his grandmother, Mme de Bernadac. Mme de Bernadac and her father were private tutors at the court of the King of Morocco for decades since the 1920's. They taught children a sophisticated education. Nowadays the Bernadac family is providing this valuable knowledge in China, also at embassies and large companies.

The Pagoda reveals: The Best of the Best!!!! Restaurant Reviews for Shanghai

Restaurant review

If in doubt – eat Japanese at the Hanano, Hongqiao Sheraton

There are many Japanese restaurants in Shanghai of various and often changing quality levels. The Hanano has been in existence since at least 12 years and has never disappointed. It is well frequented by Japanese business people. Probably also being close to the Japanese consulate ensures a steady stream of native Japanese customers.

The food is fresh and the variety is good, not only Sushi and Sashimi but also good eel, a good selection of Tsukimono, a reasonable selection of sake and, a nice touch, Coke in traditional glass bottles. Service is fast and unobtrusive, also staff seem to be adept at providing advice regarding the best meal combination. The lunch menus are very reasonably priced, evening meals more expensive. This is a restaurant for business lunch and dinner, not a 'romantic' place though.

Rotarians Andre, Daniel, Frank, Tracy, Diane, Jean & Christian were present (in shifts) at the fun event. The sky had cleared up especially for this day and everybody enjoyed the energy and the good spirits.

Highlights from the last meeting :

The last meeting was very well attended indeed, with many visitors , Rotarians and friends present. Dean presided over good food, good talks and a good presentation. We started off with the Four-Way-Test, this time read by David. Dean highlighted RYLA and also the coming Thanksgiving Fellowship event. There will be also elections on December 1st and the election committee will soon approach our members regarding this. He reminded everyone that being elected means taking up a responsibility and to not take it lightly, while he also encouraged members to stand for election.

Frank asked for mentors to support Rotaractors in their choices. He especially hoped for more female mentors – volunteers, step forward! From personal experience, also your editor can confirm that being a mentor is beneficial for both sides.

While Frank is looking for women, Terri needs men. To be more precise, more men for the Moganshan retreat which she is planning for November 14/15. The more mixed the group the more fun it will be.

Filippo introduced our guests and visiting Rotarians. Supported by Tiffany, Filippo also collected happy money.

Then Fiona gave a speech on child abuse which left no-one unaffected. The figures which she provided in the form of a quiz were quite shocking. Also the lively discussion afterwards and even more personal statements highlighted that this is an important topic indeed, though Fiona was optimistic that China is moving in the right direction with its policies.

The meeting was adjourned with a toast to children in need and the hope that we can extend Fiona's reach and message.
