Is Shanghai China... are Shanghai individual districts more developed than the rest of China?

Going back to regular meetings with special speakers we could not invite our member Adam McWhirter to give us an update about China International Cities Index. Last May, Adam presented a very interesting and fascinating comparison of 24 2nd tier cities and their international development. Adam returns with the data for 2017 and the expansion of the report to 27 cities. He will also be introducing the Shanghai International District Index, a report that will be published this September comparing Shanghai's districts and their international development. Can you really compare Shanghai to the rest of China? How do 2nd tier cities compare to an individual district in Shanghai? How do the different districts compare to each other? With all this data collected – Adam aims to answer these questions”

Highlights from the last meeting

President Moto is back. But fellowship is fellowship. The dinner just started in a most relaxing way without a spotlighted opening address.

The excitement came at 20.00 when President Moto chaired a birthday celebration for Yvon Russon who is the representative of the August BD-stars.

Funny was, when we were singing the birthday song to Yvon "...happy birthday to xxx...", many people could not tell his name. Because Yvon has been absent from our dinner meeting for a long time and he looks like a new face :)

As per request of Moto, Diane sang a French birthday song for Yvon, sounds beautiful.

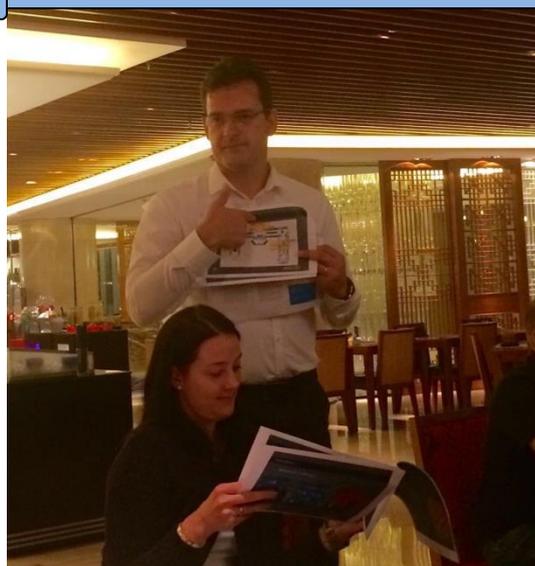

Actually Yvon did not come for the birthday celebrations. He came to fetch some banners and his rotarybiz card for his trip to Hokkaido, Japan to visit Rotary clubs there. This was a happy surprise to him.

After celebration time, Thilo introduced our Expat show in September: the Rotary booth, its design and souvenirs. Of course any extra suggestion will be more than welcomed.

Joyeux Anniversaire, Yvon
