Highlights from the last meeting

"Uncertainty is one of the most stressful feelings"
-Unknown

On Tuesday, April 12th, our club gathered for an online meeting via Zoom to check in with each other and do our best to feel like life was normal. Outside, the vibrant city we call home was eerily quiet, moving into its second week of a city wide shut-down. Two and a half years on and Covid 19 is back, center-stage, in Shanghai. Once again we find ourselves trying to both avoid and attempt to live with this elusive epidemic.

We had a great speaker, Audrey Zhang, who shared with us her story of a transformation from a successful business woman to a more successful career in the social services sector. She gave the club an overview of her experiences, progress and setbacks in her ongoing effort helping Future Smile make roads into China and all of great progress they have done in working with patients all over China with cleft-lip problems. Her story began with an idea of a seed turning into a tree, and our club was incredibly impressed with her progress that she has done in her efforts here in China. After her speech we also had a chance to listen to club member David Richardson give us an update on SSES Interact Program.

The evening was wrapped up with a healthy collection of happy money from our members and Rita, our faithful president, along with words of encouragement to our members. Online, via our clubs WeChat group, there is a lot of information being passed along offering support of food, kind words and support for anyone needing help during this time. It is hard to grasp the severity and length at which our city will have to go to get a handle on this current problem but regardless, our clubs spirit and the drive to do good perseveres and another online meeting will shortly follow.

Dr. Jonathan Woetzel

Decarbonization and the Responsibility of Business

Jonathan Woetzel is a senior partner of McKinsey & Company. He is the global leader of its Cities Special Initiative and the Asia-based Director of the McKinsey Global Institute. As McKinsey's leader in developing its China practice, Dr. Woetzel opened the Shanghai location in 1995 and has been resident since then. He has also worked in the Hong Kong, New York, and Zurich offices, and currently divides his time between Shanghai and Los Angeles.

Dr. Woetzel has extensive experience in developing strategies and organizations for both industrial and consumer companies. Industries of particular interest include energy, mining, infrastructure, health care, telecom, and airlines. He has led many of the Firm's most significant engagements including the first major international listing of a Chinese company, the revitalization of Nanjing Road in Shanghai, and our global client service to the world's most significant resource company for the past 15 years.

Dr. Woetzel also advises national and local government authorities on urban and economic development and reform issues. He has developed economic plans for over 40 cities globally including Dubai, Moscow, Singapore, Seoul, Shanghai, Wuhan, and Shenzhen, among others. Globally he advises government leaders in Russia, Saudi Arabia, Southeast Asia and the United States among others on sustainable growth strategies.

In 2008, Dr. Woetzel authored the report China's Urban Billion, still the most rigorous analysis of China's urbanization trends. He then launched the Urban China Initiative along with Tsinghua University and Columbia University to catalyze the next stage of China's urbanization by supporting world-class research on China's key urban challenges.

Dr. Woetzel has authored five books on China: China's Economic Opening to the Outside World (Praeger, 1989), Capitalist China: Strategies for a Revolutionized Economy (John Wiley, 2003), Operation China (Harvard, 2006), One Hour China (Towson Press, 2014) and One Hour China – The Consumer Book (Towson Press, 2015) and coauthored No Ordinary Disruption (Public Affairs, 2015). He holds a Ph.D. in political science from the University of Southern California, where his work focused on China's political economy. Dr. Woetzel, a U.S. citizen, is proficient in Mandarin, Spanish, and German, and is the proud father of Dominic and Taylor Woetzel.

Smile Mission

Future Smile Charitable Foundation (hereafter Future Smile) is a 5A-level public fundraising foundation in China. With the continuous support of governments at all levels, volunteers and a number of well-known organizations and enterprises, Future Smile's key program Smile Mission that helps children born with cleft lip and palates has benefited more than 75,000 beneficiaries at home and abroad.

In China, 1 in every 600 new borns has cleft lip or cleft palate or both. Many families especially in rural areas can not afford the cost of medical treatments. Their children live in loneliness and despair as well as in poor health condition due to difficulty in eating and chewing since born. How can we help this group of people, so that they don't have to bear the despair physically and emotionally anymore and be able to live to their fullest starting from a simple smile becomes the mission of Future Smile, and we call it Smile Mission.

Smile Mission provides free treatment for children with cleft lip and palates as well as head and face deformity from poor and low-income families. Over the past 30 years, Smile Mission has completed more than 200 free clinics, covering more than 100 cities (counties) in more than 20 provinces, cities and autonomous regions in China and 21 countries in Asia. It provides high-quality free surgery for more than 50,000 children in China and over 25,000 children in southeast Asia.

All the medical services including surgery, preoperative and post-operative preparations and nursing are carried out by our experienced medical volunteers, including surgeons, anesthesiologists, nurses, pediatric nurses and other medical staff. They make full use of their off-duty time and travel long distances to participate in Smile Mission activities, performing free surgery for cleft lip children and change their lives.

If you're interested in helping our children with cleft lip and palates, please do contact Audrey Zhang at audreyzhang@futuresmile.org.cn. Thank you so much for being part of our mission!
