Highlights from the last mentoring meeting

The second mentoring session as part of the RCS Career Empowerment Program was held online on Tuesday, March 29. In total, 17 mentors signed up to help the mentees to reflect and foster their development. It was the first experience of such a kind for quite a few mentors. Fortunately, the event had not only been perfectly organized by Rotarians Elizabeth, Tilman, and Naomi but the mentors had also received tailored training by professional coach Tilman in advance. During the 60-minutes-session, we practiced the responsibilities of a mentor: after building up trust and rapport, we supported the mentees in their goal setting. By asking open and thought-provoking questions and applying active listening, we tried to activate the mentee's potential and resources to let them find their own solutions and ideas on how to improve a situation or behavior.

Time flew by and from my perspective, the sessions were rewarding for both mentees and mentors, not only because of the gratefulness expressed by the mentees. So, I would like to encourage more of us to give it a try next time. Side note: this time, even two of our members used the opportunity to receive mentorship from their fellow Rotarians.

Every Tree Start From A Seed

Audrey Zhang

Audrey spent the first decade of her career in marketing and communications with Edelman International Public Relations and American International Assurance (AIA) covering areas including strategic brand positioning, advertising, sponsorship marketing, corporate communications, corporate social responsibility, public relations, media and event management. While she was with Edelman PR, Audrey's most notable project was leading the launch of British Airways' inaugural flight from London to Shanghai. During her time with AIA, Audrey successfully managed the first corporate branding TVC and agent recruitment campaign in China. She also led efforts to coordinate all internal/ external communication across key stakeholders for a smooth transition during AIA's IPO preparations. Attending AIA's Asia-Pacific Future Leaders Program marked a career turning point for Audrey. She discovered her passion for the social sector after getting heavily involved in a charitable fieldwork mission at an orphanage in Xi'an, Shaanxi Province.

A few years after the Future Leaders Program, Audrey made the decision to step full-time into the social sector and make it her life-long mission. Audrey first worked with SVG (Social Venture Group, a nonprofit philanthropic advisory and advocacy organization), then Shanghai Soong Ching Ling Foundation (A well known GONGO named after honorary Chairwoman of China, Madame Soong Ching Ling) and currently she is with Future Smile Charitable Foundation, a 5A-level (the highest level for NGOs in China) public fundraising foundation first established in Zhejiang Province.

During her nearly 10 years experience in the social sector, Audrey has worked on a number of charitable programs where her passion lays, including medical assistance, education for underprivileged children, special needs families and sustainable development programs. Her mission is to use her talents and experiences to make a positive impact on those who are in need, especially for vulnerable women and children.

“Each on bring one ”

Abundance. Many of us live in a society where we have so much. Enough food to eat, safety, security, an abundance of things to make our lives happy and content. What we don't always have enough of, or perhaps we don't make enough of, is time. Time to meet others with similar mindsets, time to appreciate all that we have...time to help others where basic needs are not always met in such an abundance. Each one, bring one helps commit Rotaract members to building a bigger community, welcoming more likeminded members and ultimately helping more people along the way.

Summaries:

For the month of October, RACS held its usual Monday meetings, two of which we had external speakers. The first speaker, Ms. Julie Chun from the Royal Asiatic Society Shanghai, shared her vast knowledge on art and museums around the city of Shanghai.

The second speaker, Mr. Spencer Guo from the Beagle's Community, joined RACS for an eye opening evening on what is happening to these dogs in pharmaceutical companies, including a lot of popular brands that we know and use.

On the 7th of October, in collaboration with The Rooster, RACS held its fourth Annual Pumpkin Carving contest. The spooktastic event, led by Rotaractor Miguel, benefitted Shanghai Sunrise, supporting children`s education. Fellow Rotaractor Dusan represented RACS in his home-town by also hosting a pumpkin carving event.

In November, RACS held its Annual 5Km fun run, Run In Blue, to support childrens health and education. With the help of various sponsors and contibutors, despite all challenges faced, RACS was able to host this event allowing everyone who participated to enjoy a energizing run along the Suzhou creek in the Changning District. After the run, there were various activities for particiants to join to cool down.

On the 27th of November, RACS held a joint meeting with the Rotaract Club of Nagoya, where participants had the oppurtunity to become more acquainted with each other, strenthening bonds between both communities with the hope of eventually becoming sister clubs.

Sessions with Rita:

I reached out to Rita for some guidance with coming up with the elevator pitch for RACS. I was given some advice and some materials to work with to come up with the speech. I was able to put forward a few pieces of thoughts I had gathered together and to my surprise Rita thought what I came up with was pretty good. Though there is still room for improvement such as making the pitch specific to rotaract.

ANU COLAB:

For the collaboration with the Rotaract club of Antigua, I reached out to a friend of mine who is a part of the club in Antigua, who then put me in contact with the current President. From there we had multiple exchanges trying to work out how and what we could collaborate on given the time difference. With Rotaract week, it was the perfect oppurtunity for both clubs to work with a lot of different club in which we did to make the social media video showing the diversity and reach of rotaract across the globe.
