“Understand your different Ego-State and how you trigger others”

He is of German and U.S. nationality, and has lived in Chicago, Frankfurt, London, Paris, Madrid, Zürich and now Shanghai. He is fluent in German, English, and conversational in Spanish, French and Mandarin.

Learn about a powerful yet simple model to identify and analyze the complex way of how people interact with each other. We all have experienced that destructive behavior of our counterpart can also trigger dysfunctional behavior in ourselves.

How can we avoid this and return to a more constructive interaction? Having a model with which you can analyze and improve your own “behavior and communication portfolio” as well as that of others can be extremely helpful in challenging situations.

This keynote speech will introduce you to the eye-opening PAC Model of transactional analysis and has the potential to bring your communication awareness to the next level.

Visiting Rotarians:

Manuela Meske-Schubert, RC Markdorf, Germany

Patrick Nijs, RC Kunmig, China

Harry Wong, RC Suzhou, China

Last time we met again in the Kunlun hotel, but not on the top floor, rather we met in the Leonardo for some tasty international food. Rita guided us through the proceedings and Nils gave an exciting overview over the Rotary Foundation.

Holger was the first guest who actually could ring the bell for his generous donation in support of Chinese students.

We celebrated an amazing number of birthdays with an amazing cake. And worthwhile of celebration was also the induction of new member Caroline Lincoln, by Rita and Thilo. Welcome to the RCS! This was one of the liveliest and best visited meetings this year, as also PP Frank Yih remarked.
