Some update about KBDF Gift of Health in Qinghai

Report January to March 2020

The Kashin-Beck disease (KBD) is a neglected disease afflicting most poor areas of China and resulting in stunted growth, joint deformities and chronic pain. Exact causes are still uncertain but risk factors have been identified: multi nutrients and vitamins deficiency, as well as fungal contamination of grains.

The KBD program of the RC Shanghai supports the Kashin-Beck Disease Fund by improving nutrition and food habits and educating the beneficiaries to reach improvement of their nutritional and health status, with special focus on children.

The main aim is to provide 15 greenhouses and benefit as many families as possible: the project started on January 2020 with the construction and planting postponed because of CoVid19. Construction started on April and hopefully the first vegetables will be ready to eat within 2020.

First training at project site, located in Nangqian County, Yushu Tibetan Autonomous Pref., Qinghai Province, 4100m.
